International Vinegar Festival Plein Air Art Event

Northeast South Dakota is an area ready for discovery by the art community. For plein air painters it is a treasure trove of spots with interesting settings filled with light to stir your creative juices and add delight to your artistic pallet.

The International Vinegar Festival has added a plein air painting event to its great line up of attractions. We are inviting artists from around the world to discover the beauty here and reproduce what they see at the time of the painting. The public is invited to come, watch, learn and purchase the paintings.

We have targeted a 100 mile radius from the town of Roslyn inside the state of South Dakota. We are asking people who live in that area to rediscover how beautiful their area is. We want them to send pictures of their rediscoveries and tell us where they are. We will spread the word to artists around the world who we hope will come and try to capture that beauty in their paintings June 10 through 17th.

The art community is a sharing community so the public is encouraged to go out and watch the artists create works of art. Why not come out and paint together?

To see all of the finished work and have a chance to purchase the paintings you will need to come to the International Vinegar Festival in Roslyn, South Dakota on June 17th 10 AM to 3 PM. In addition to the painting, there will be festivities throughout the day. There will also be entertainment, food, a parade and of course lots of excitement at the International Vinegar Museum.
